

General Information – Contacts – Property – Disclaimer

This is the new issue of the E&P General Specifications (GS), applicable as of January, 1st 2013. This CD Rom contains all GS generated by E&P disciplines. The documents contained in this CD Rom are produced using a process certified ISO 9001 by LRQA.

It must be stressed that the E&P General Specifications (GS) are for mandatory application on any new project or E&P operated asset, however there is always the possibility of requesting a derogation through a specific procedure which is an integral part of the certified process.

This set of documents is annually updated taking into account experiences feed-back, technical progress and international or professional standards evolution. Those documents constitute a unique and extensive repository of the Company's expertise as well as a tool. Like any tool, its usage requires proper and mutual understanding. In case of doubts E&P specialists are available to assist.

All the documents in this CD Rom are in English, they can be accessed from the EP Intranet; earlier versions (archives) are available on request. Note also that, in this release, a datasheet is no longer an independent document but is linked to the corresponding GS as attached document.

You are invited to forward your feedback and comments to your disciplines corresponding members or directly to:
